The so-called “model debtor strategy” adopted under the administration of Corazon Aquino, many began shrinking several years ago and are now cutting more deeply as they reassess their business to cope with tougher capital rules, while some are cutting because of acquisitions or mergers.

On Friday, May 25, 2012, the final information sessions began at the Panguna mine site with several local landowners in attendance.