the condition is not gender specific, but is more likely to develop in women