there were security shortcomings, no doubt i have spoken to the member who introduced the motion victims also can seek a protection order that could place restrictions on or help identify the cyberbully.
but if the drug had been approved in australia at the proposed price, the government would likely have considered it necessary to restrict access