more particularly, male Syrian hamsters are cyclically provided 14 hours of light and 10 hours of darkness to maximize androgen dependent sebaceous gland activity and control the size of the glands.