because of concerns about the efficiency and selectivity of oxidation of more complex substrates, mao is usually carried out early in synthetic sequences